SDSU SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
DIVISION OF HEALTH PROMOTION & BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE

40 years of impact from 1980-81 through 2020-21

PUBLISHED
in scientific peer-reviewed journals

In any one year, nearly a quarter of HPBS MPH students' Integrative Learning Experiences are published in peer-reviewed journals.

50 doctoral degrees

Awarded doctoral degrees to individuals who are now conducting critical health promotion & behavioral science research.

2

National Institutes of Health-funded research centers to address health disparities and promote minority health research.

faculty research &

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

- Community engaged research
- Health disparities, including among Latinos, LGBTQ+ communities, adolescents, families, & communities
- Promotion of physical activity, healthy eating, sleep, & mental health
- Prevention and control of obesity, cancer, asthma, diabetes, substance use, & violence

20+
partnerships

Every year, over 20 HPBS MPH students partner with community agencies to conduct public health projects.

200+
projects

More than 200 extramurally-funded projects to support faculty and student research in health promotion, minority health, & health disparities.

10
years of CDC funding

Funded for 10 years by the CDC for the San Diego Prevention Research Center.

San Diego State University
School of Public Health

40th Anniversary

@sdsu.sph @sdsu_sgsph
@sdsu.gsphsc @sdsuhealth