The aim of this research is to evaluate a community-based program designed to maintain chronically mentally ill persons in the community. The thrust of the analysis is cost-benefit/cost-effectiveness. This model is looking at all costs, including costs associated with the criminal justice system, costs of families, property owners, and the State Department of Mental Illness. During the intervention, randomized clients were studied on a variety of psycho-social scales by investigators from the Department of Community Psychiatry at MUSC.

Co-Principal Investigator, "Availability and Utilization of HIV Prevention and Early Intervention Services for Selected Seropositive Populations". $475,000 from the Centers for Disease Control. 1993-1996. Interviews were conducted at three, six, nine, and twelve months after a client tested positive for HIV. The scope of the face-to-face interviews was to determine the availability and utilization of early intervention services. Domains that were measured included demographics, insurance status, health status, health functioning, social support, and barriers to care. As co-principal investigator, I worked on all aspects of the project including development of the survey instrument, training of interviewer, data entry and analysis.

This project set up a telecommunications trial at the State Department of Health and Environmental Control. Employees were screened for their suitability for working at home, policies were developed to maintain communication with supervisors and colleagues, methods of evaluation of performance were developed for these employees. The Department has continued to have some of its employees work at home, thus reducing space problems at some work sites.

Co-Principal Investigator, "Outreach and Health Intervention for the Poor". $50,000 from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control. 1990-1992. This project used door-to-door canvassing to identify specific needs for primary health care services in a poor under-served, rural community in South Carolina and to educate the community about health care services available at a Federally-assisted community health center. The evaluation of the project demonstrated that access and use are increased with this type of outreach activity.

Investigator, "Barriers to Service for Persons with Alzheimer's Disease and Their Care Givers". $60,000 from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control. 1990-1992. This study developed an instrument to measure the level of burden that caregivers of persons with Alzheimer's disease have due to their responsibilities.

Principal Investigator, "Independent Assessment of the HIV/AIDS and Elderly/Disabled Medicaid Waiver for the State of South Carolina". $25,000 from the South Carolina State Health and Human Services Finance Commission. 1992. This project evaluated the HIV/AIDS and Elderly/Disabled Medicaid Waiver (1115) for the State of South Carolina. It addressed the issues of cost, quality of life and client satisfaction, appropriateness of care, and reviewed the state policies concerning the conducting of this waiver.

Co-Principal Investigator, "Client Tracking and Program Evaluation for the Chronically Mentally Ill Medicaid Waiver," $20,000 from the South Carolina Health and Human Services Finance Commission and the South Carolina Department of Mental Health. 1990-1991. This project conducted an evaluation of the Chronically Mentally Ill Medicaid Waiver (1115) for the State of South Carolina. The waiver placed certain individuals in intensive care programs in the community and provided a capitation payment to Community Mental Health Centers for these individuals.

Investigator, "Assessment of Hampton County, South Carolina's Rural Health Development Project". $20,779 from the South Carolina Area Health Education Center. 1990. The project assessed health and demographic data on Hampton County, South Carolina, evaluated the county's strengths and weaknesses and provided a plan for recruitment of primary care physicians.

Investigator, for "HIV Planning for South Carolina" awarded to the South Carolina Department of Health and Environmental Control $170,000 from U.S. Health Resources Service Administration. Subcontract ($58,279). 1989-1990. This grant allowed for statewide planning for HIV services. As part of that effort, persons with HIV/AIDS and a variety of types of providers were surveyed to determine their attitudes, knowledge, and beliefs about HIV/AIDS. A family of survey instruments was developed. Providers included physicians, nurses, administrators, and social workers.

Principal Investigator, "Evaluations of Nurse Assistants in South Carolina". $86,501 from the South Carolina Health and Human Services Finance Commission. 1990. With the advent of the requirement that all long-term care facilities that receive Federal monies must have nurse assistants that are certified, the State of South Carolina proceeded to develop the training and certification process. This project evaluated the implementation of this process.
