

San Diego State University, School of Public Health
Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) – Director of Undergraduate Program
VPAA # 2020/21-65

The School of Public Health (SPH), San Diego State University, seeks an Assistant Professor (tenure-track) to lead its Undergraduate Division. The Undergraduate Division grants a Bachelor's of Science in Public Health. The division serves approximately 500 undergraduate pre-major and major students. The Director of the undergraduate program will be responsible for most administrative functions of the program including but not limited to serving as liaison among the faculty, program students, the SPH director, and University administration, coordinate teaching assignments, assist with accreditation, program review, or assessment activities required for the program, initiate curriculum changes and other activities to maintain a high quality academic program, develop university catalog program descriptions, coordinate the academic advising of students of the program, and support the program students in extracurricular Public Health activities, perform special assignments as delegated by SPH director or other university administrators.

Qualifications:

Candidates for this full-time (9-month) state-supported tenure-track position should possess a doctoral degree in Public Health, or a terminal or other equivalent degree in a closely related field. Special consideration will be given to applicants with experience working with underrepresented and underserved populations, leading and teaching in a large undergraduate program of public health. The selected individual will teach at the undergraduate level, develop/maintain an independent program of research, and direct the undergraduate program. Additional responsibilities include course development and undergraduate research and field practice supervision.

Environment:

The SDSU SPH is ranked in the top 25 public health schools and programs in the nation and third in California. The School of Public Health is a research-intensive environment which supports faculty to develop and sustain a teacher-scholar model. We are seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups. SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university and Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all.

Applications/Nominations:

Interested candidates should apply via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/72810> and submit the following materials:

- 1) Curriculum vitae
- 2) 2-3 page letter describing pertinent leadership experience in an undergraduate program, teaching experience and philosophy, and research interests
- 3) 1-2 page statement describing, where applicable, how the applicant's research, teaching and service addresses inclusion and promotes diversity
- 4) Contact information for three references (who will be contacted after informing the candidate)

Application review will begin February 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter"; under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirement set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. SDSU is a Title IX, equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and expression, marital status, age, disability, pregnancy, medical condition, or covered veteran status.